Acknowledgments

A number of individuals contributed to the writing, development, and production of this tool kit. EngenderHealth staff members Jan Kumar and Jill-Tabbutt Henry and former EngenderHealth staff member Connie Kamara developed the conceptual framework on which the job aids in this tool kit are based. Each of them had a hand in writing this document. We owe a deep debt of gratitude to Ms. Kamara for painstakingly reviewing and editing the work-in-progress version.

We also very much appreciate the valuable input from our colleagues and program counterparts in Bolivia, Ghana, India, Nepal, and Uganda, who field-tested early versions of the instruments in this tool kit, as well as that of our colleagues in Bangladesh and Cambodia, who used the work-in-progress version of the tool kit in a more in-depth pilot test.

EngenderHealth would like to thank the following staff members for their contributions to this project: Rachael Pine provided valuable input to better define the element related to the social and rights context for reproductive health decision making. Josephine Ventunelli provided indispensable support in formatting the document while it was under development. Liz Harvey, Anna Kurica, Karen Landovitz, Margaret Scanlon, and Virginia Taddoni were responsible for the editing, designing, and production of this tool kit.

We gratefully acknowledge the materials provided by Family Care International (Sexual and Reproductive Health Briefing Cards) and the International Conference on Population and Development (Programme of Action).
