for a better life

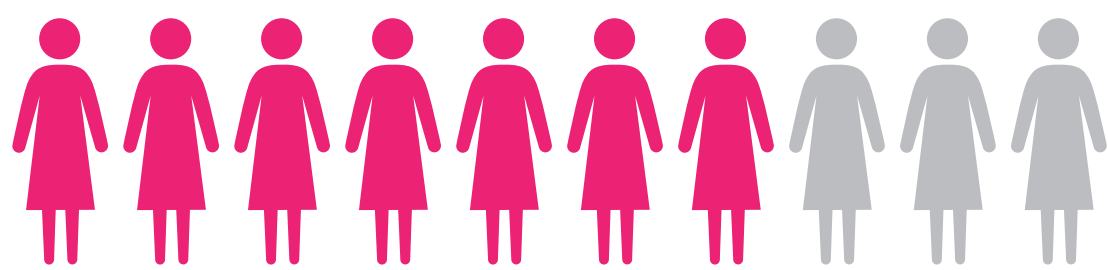

We asked
Americans what they thought about contraception...

87% believe that access to contraception is important to being able to achieve life goals.

89% believe that women everywhere should have access to contraception.

70% of mothers say that having access to contraception has had a positive impact on their own lives.

64% are willing to take action to support expanding access to contraception all over the world.

What do you think?
